

Angus clubs respond to clubgolf appeal

clubgolf in conjunction with Angus Council Sports Development and Active Schools held a junior golf information evening at Forfar Golf club in April in order to identify and generate junior coaching opportunities across the area.

The evening saw eleven local golf clubs attend the evening and already the discussion has encouraged two golf clubs to deliver coaching through the clubgolf programme.

The hosts of the meeting, Forfar Golf Club and Brechin Golf Club, have committed to deliver Stage 1 coaching to local children this season. Each club will work with local schools to attract the children to attend Stage 1 coaching at the clubs after the children receiving the introductory game firstclubgolf during curriculum time.

Forfar Golf Club recently recruited three new volunteers who have all successfully passed their Level 1 coaching award. These volunteers will deliver coaching at the club alongside Club Secretary and former British Amateur champion Stuart Wilson.

Brechin Golf Club will deliver coaching through the professional staff at the club fronted by Head Professional Stephen Rennie. Stephen has been very proactive in delivering firstclubgolf to local schools in the Brechin area over the past few years and now wishes to ensure that the local children take up golf by accessing coaching and membership at the club.
