
Dunfermline Mini Rugby is Edinburgh's Guard of Honour

Forty plus Dunfermline youngsters from Dunfermline Rugby Club along with their parents were invited to Murrayfield last week as VIP guests of Edinburgh Rugby and to show their support by forming a guard of honor for the Edinburgh team before kick off and at half time.

The night started off with a visit to their very own hospitality suite in Murrayfield where the players were entertained by Paul Hunter, Rugby Development Officer along with Edinburgh Rugby players. The night started with questions from the kids and parents to the Edinburgh players from "What is it like to be a professional rugby player?", "What does a professional rugby player do each day?" to "Who is the most famous person on your phone?".

The question and answer session was followed by a rugby quiz, then an opportunity for photographs and autographs. The players were then taken down to pitch side to form a guard of honor on the Murrayfield pitch for the Edinburgh Rugby stars to enter through in preparation to play Leinster Rugby Club of Ireland.

The kids then took their place at pitch side to watch the first half of the game before they were back to form another guard of honor for the second half.

Paul Hunter, Rugby Development Officer commented by saying "This was a very enjoyable experience for everyone involved from the parents to the children and a rare glimpse of behind the scenes at Murrayfield and getting up close to professional rugby players"
